Profile and Data

In Kabul Province

Kabul Brief Introduction:

Kabul province is located in eastern Afghanistan between 34.15-34.91 degrees latitude and 68.83-69.95 degrees longitude and is bordered by the provinces of Kapisa and Parwan to the north, Laghman and Nangarhar to the east, Logar to the south and Wardak and Parwan to the west. Kabul is divided into 14 districts and 15 municipality counties that encompass 586,184.02 square kilometers, which include 133,328 hectares used for agricultural purposes. Kabul has a total of 939 villages and based on 2003 census data has an estimated population in of 979,769 people (not including Kabul city). Kabul City, the capital of Afghanistan is the most populated city of the country and is a major center of trade and for farmers and herders.

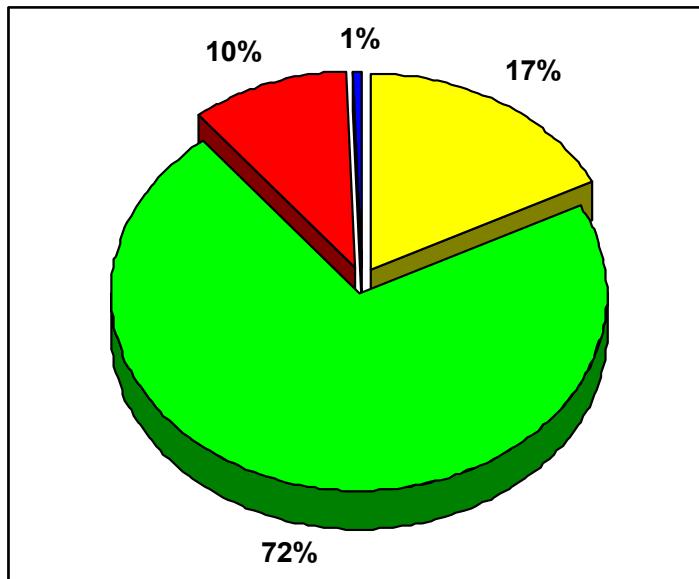

Farmers of Kabul province grew 30 different crops on approximately 54,341 hectares of land (9.26 percent of total area) in 2008. The cultivated area is concentrated in the northwestern districts (71 percent is located in 7 northern districts) of the province because of the fertile land found within the Panjshir River watersbasin.

The larger three eastern districts have terrain (hills and mountains) that is more suitable for raising livestock. The districts of Kabul are:

- Dehsabz
- Charasia
- Paghman
- Musahi
- Qarabagh
- Estalif
- Farza
- Guldara
- Sarobi
- Bagrami
- Khaki Jabar
- Shakardara
- Mirbachakot

Kabul's crop production surveyed in 2008 totaled 392,524 metric tons (MT), mostly consisting of fruits (71.81 percent), followed by grains (17.41 percent), vegetables (10.21 percent), industrial crops and animal fodder (0.56 percent). The total market value of Kabul's 2008 agricultural production was estimated at $282 million, with no contributing value added processing.

Qarabagh was the most productive of Kabul province's 14 districts in 2008, with farmers growing 21.22 percent of all fruits grown (83,000 MT). Charasia district ranked highest in terms of vegetable production (13,500 MT) as well as animal fodder. Meanwhile, Sarobi district was the largest contributor of grain (13,000 MT).

Research Methodology

This report was prepared based on information provided by AgNet/NAIS system. In 2007 and 2008 AgNet Conducted two separate surveys (1) district profile survey and (2) agricultural statistic survey in 19 provinces of Afghanistan with the support of ASAP and MAIL at district level. During a period of 4 months each, more than 50 surveyors collected information related to the number of hectares land cultivated types of products produced number of livestock, crop calendar, sources of water and much more agricultural information. The information presented in this report is based exclusively in the area surveyed, not in the total farm land of the provinces. The AgNet/NAIS data base for Kabul is the most accurate database available in the country in spite there is no estimation rewarding the level of exactitude of the information. All data related to harvest amounts was checked in July 2008 by ASAP personnel (Prof. A. Ghani Taj Agricultural Information Specialist and former professor of Kabul University and Ahmad Jawid Abid Survey and Data Assistant) by comparing the national average productivity level of each products. Crop value information was determined on wholesale price in Kabul and collected by Kabul AgNet officer Mr. Mustafa and approved by the director of Kabul Provincial Agriculture department Mr. Abdul Kabeer Farzad In November 2008.

Grains

Grain production in 2008 was estimated at 68,325 MT and valued at $40 million. Almost 87.9 percent comprised major food staple wheat (worth $32 million) while the remaining 11 percent was made up of other grain crops with a combined value of $8.5 million.

Grain	Tons	Value USD $
Rice	4,587	$ 7,155,330
Wheat	60,060	$ 32,432,133
Barely	645	$ 284,712

Mung bean	30	$ 18,165
Other Grain	26	$ 20,572
Total	68,325	$ 40,982,794

Wheat is grown in all districts of Kabul province, with farmers in Qarabagh district growing the highest amount (10,000 MT) in 2008. Only three districts produced less than 1,000 MT of wheat while at least 3,500 MT were grown in all other districts of the province. Of the three rice growing districts in the province, most is found growing in Shakardara district. With the exception of rice and mung beans, Sarobi district contributed the highest volumes of each main type of grain produced in Kabul province. The figures presented in the below table are in kg.

Fruits

2008 annual fruit production surveyed in Kabul province was calculated at 280,871 MT, which had a market value of $225 million in 2008. Grapes represent 82.3 percent of all fruit grown in Kabul and apples were the second highest in volume (13 percent), generating revenues in the amount of $18.3 million.

Fruits	Tons	Value USD $
Grape	231,918	$ 185,534,760
Apple	36,633	$ 18,316,400

Fruit production is unevenly distributed throughout Kabul province's districts. However, apples, grapes and apricots were grown in almost 13 of the 14 districts of Kabul. Guldara and Paghman together produced the highest amount of apples (73 percent) while Dehsabz, Kalakan, Guldara, Qarabagh and Mirbachakot districts accounted for almost all (92 percent) of the province's grapes in 2008. Farmers in Paghman district grew high amounts of walnuts (220,500 kg) and the second largest volume of almonds behind Sarobi district. The figures presented in the below table are in kg.

Vegetables

Vegetable production surveyed in Kabul province during 2008 totaled 37,330 MT, and resulted in $12.7 million in revenue. Kabul farmers cultivated more than 12 different types of vegetables but only 3 amounted to over 6,500 MT by the end of the year. Potatoes, onions and tomatoes represented 95.9 percent of the total vegetable production and provided $11.9 million in revenue in Kabul province.

Vegetable	Tons	Value U.S.
Potato	16,988	$
Onion	12,199	$

Total	40,085	$ 13,93

Farmers grew potatoes and onions in almost every province of Kabul with most cultivated in Charas Sarobi district accounted for the majority of tomatoes in 2008. The remaining 9 types of vegetables were growing in the 11 districts of Kabul. The figures presented in the below table are in kg.

Fodder & Industrial Crops

The amount of alfalfa is directly related with the number of livestock raised in the province. Meanwhile, clover indirectly corresponds with the number of dairy cows and is to a lesser extent consumed by people living in poverty. A small amount of fodder is transported to Kabul city.

Fodder and Industrial	Tons	Value USD $
Alfalfa	1,435	$ 861,000
Clover	752	$ 601,600
Cotton	18	$ 22,050
Total	2,205	$ 1,484,650

Alfalfa and clover is growing in 8 districts of Kabul. Farmers in Paghman and Charasia districts grew more than 62 percent of all Kabul alfalfa. Sarobi was the only district where a significant amount of cotton was grown in 2008. The figures presented in the below table are in kg.

	Shakardara	65,295	162,350
Total		388,879	1,556,162

Household livestock in Kabul province number 598,000, not including 1.5 million chickens, ducks and turkeys. Herders in Sarobi, Guldara, Qarabagh and Shakardara districts raise 67.5 percent of livestock and Guldara, Shakardara and farmers of Charasia raise 85.4 percent of poultry. The remaining 14.6 percent is found in the Kabul's other 11 districts. Dairy cows are the dominant household livestock in Kabul districts.
